Seasonal CoffeesKeurig Care

I am running this item again because it is really important. Just this week I repaired a B-100 that had been in service under 2 years, had used only filtered water and yet, lime scale build-up had damaged the machine, causing it not to brew at all. Please make sure to do the cleaning at least every 6 months. - Ken -

The single most important thing that you can do for your Keurig brewer is periodic cleaning and descaling. Keurig recommends doing a mineral descaling every 6 months, more frequently if your water has a high mineral content.

Brewers that have a mineral build-up will potentially make a weaker than expected cup of coffee because the water not be as hot.

We have both use and care information and descaling instructions provided by Keurig for your use. Please follow the link below for the instructions for your brewer.
